YALE UNIVERSITY

NEW HAVEN - - CONNECTICUT

THE Collegiate School of Connecticut was founded by the combined action of a few of the ministers in Connecticut, who obtained, in October 1701, a charter from the Colony Legislature. Under this charter the Collegiate School was begun in November, 1701, at Saybrook, where it continued until its removal in October, 1716, to New Haven. In September, 1718, the name of Yale College was given by the trustees to the school, in honor of the benefactions of Elihu Yale, of London, lately Governor of the East India Company's settlement at Madras. Various charter amendments have been made from time to time and in March, 1887, an act passed the General Assembly of Connecticut authorizing the use of the title "Yale University" by the President and Fellows of Yale College.

The Scientific School was commenced in 1847. In 1860 a convenient building and a considerable endowment were given by Joseph E. Sheffield, of New Haven, whose name was subsequently attached to the foundation.

The courses of study offered in the University are comprehended in four Departments, under the control of the Corporation, each Department being also under the administration of a distinct Faculty of instruction. These Departments are: (1) The Department of Philosophy and the Arts; (2) The Department of Theology; (3) The Department of Medicine; and, (4) The Department of Law.

Under the first-named Department are included two separately organized sections, in which instruction for under graduates is provided, viz.: The Academical Department, and The Sheffield Scientific School; also The School of The Fine Arts (Established 1866), the Department of Music (Established 1894) and The Forest School (Established 1900), each with a special organization; and The Graduate School, under the combined Faculty of the Department.

The Library, the Peabody Museum of Natural History, and the Observatory are severally organized independently of the special Departments, and are designed to contribute, in their appropriate spheres, to the instruction and advancement of the whole institution.

The University has, through the liberality of various donors, a number of graduate fellowships and scholarships and undergraduate scholarships in its gift, as well as various premiums for excellence in certain studies.

SHEFFIELD SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL

The Sheffield Scientific School, founded in 1847 as a Department of Yale University, offers a wide range of opportunity for general and special studies in science. There are thirteen special courses of study leading to the degree of Bachelor of Philosophy. The more prominent of these courses are in Civil Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Municipal and Sanitary Engineering, Mining Engineering, Metallurgy, Chemistry, Biology, with special reference to preparation for Medical studies, a course preparatory to Forestry, and a course in General Scientific study, including Political Science, Economics, Finance, with French, German, Spanish, etc.

More advanced courses, leading to the degree of C. E., M. E., M. S., and Ph. D., are likewise offered to graduates of universities and colleges especially qualified for advanced scientific study. As one of the Departments of Yale University the students of the Sheffield Scientific School have all the advantages of the University Libraries, Reading-rooms, University Gymnasium, Athletic Field, Dining Hall, etc. New laboratories and dormitories now under construction promise additional facilities. The Faculty is composed of seventy-five professors and instructors, with a student-body of about eight hundred.

BOARDING and DAY SCHOOL for YOUNG LADIES and LITTLE GIRLS

Buildings, new and perfectly equipped for health and comfort, with steam heat, perfect drainage and ventilation, elevator and the best sanitary equipments.

Physical Care and Culture receive special attention; at least one hour's daily exercise is required of each pupil. Tennis and basket ball in seasonable weather.

Discipline is confined to a few rules, the stimulation of self-respect and self-control being largely substitute for stringent regulations. Cordial relations are established between teacher and pupils, and close individual study is made of the needs of each student.

Courses of Study embrace Primary, Preparatory and Collegiate Departments, leading to a complete preparation for the best colleges, or for the active duties of cultured womanhood.

The Patronage of the School comes from the leading families of Washington and the country at large. For terms and particulars address:

THE WASHINGTON SCHOOL is located in the suburbs of Washington, at an elevation of 400 feet above the Potomac; it is surrounded by woods and fields, yet it is within half an hour's ride by convenient trolley of the heart of the city. With its Boarding and Day Departments, with its Junior and Senior Schools, with its modern buildings and its extensive athletic grounds, and with its large and able faculty, it is fully equipped to train and to educate a boy from the time he leaves the kindergarten until he enters college.

In a letter to the Head-Master President Eliot of Harvard says:

"Your programme of studies is much more comprehensive than is usual, and the provision you make for choice of studies in the interest of each individual pupil is excellent. Your proportion of the number of teachers to the number of pupils is also unusually large."

GUNSTON

A SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES
WASHINGTON, D. C.

1401 Massachusetts Ave. and 1212-1214 Fourteenth St. N. W.

THE location is on the Highland Terrace, overlooking Thomas Circle. Near several parks and only five squares north of White House and Treasury, a most beautiful and central situation.

The faculty consists of twenty-four experienced teachers and lecturers. The corps of teachers is composed of ladies and gentlemen of high social position, moral worth and intellectual superiority, and their permanent retention has secured the best and most systematic instruction under refining influences.

The course of study (home and day) embraces a complete school life—primary, intermediate, preparatory, collegiate, and there is a college preparatory department with a course complete but sufficiently flexible to adapt it to the requirements, in language and science, of the particular college course contemplated.

The home life and social advantages are the best, and the patronage select. Send for illustrated catalogue.

The University of Chicago

Founded by JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER

THE University of Chicago was founded in 1891, and opened its doors to students October 1, 1892. During the ninth year of its history it enrolled more than thirty-six hundred students in its collegiate and graduate departments and two hundred in its preparatory school, thus taking its place among the largest institutions of the country. In the number of its graduates, pursuing the most advanced courses of study, it surpassed all other Universities in America.

The University is located on the Midway Plaisance between Washington and Jackson Parks in the South Division of the City of Chicago. The campus comprises more than fifty acres, having a frontage of six blocks on the Plaisance, and extending North from Fifty-ninth to Fifty-sixth Street, a distance of over nineteen hundred feet, or three-eighths of a mile.

Prior to the first of January, 1902, about $3,000,000 had been expended in buildings and equipments on the University campus. In addition, there were buildings at Morgan Park for the use of the preparatory school costing $140,000, and there had been expended in building and equipping the Yerkes Observatory at Lake Geneva, Wis., more than $300,000. The grounds of the institution at these places had an aggregate value of about $1,700,000.

The endowments of the University, on July 1, 1901, exceeded $6,000,000

The founder of the institution had then contributed to the institution more than $8,000,000.

Women are admitted to all departments and form more than one-third of the students

The University conducts its work throughout the entire year, there being four quarters of twelve weeks each, beginning July 19, October 1, January 1, and April 1. Students are permitted to enter at the beginning of any quarter and take their vacation in any quarter. Convocations are held at the close of each quarter, and at each convocation classes are graduated.

University extension is a distinct division of the work of the institution, and more than $40,000 is annually expended in this department. The University of Chicago Press is also an important part of the University. The Journals are regularly issued under the editorial management of the different faculties.

It is the purpose of the President, Dr. W. R. Harper, and the trustees, to add to the scope of the University, as soon as practicable, advanced schools of Law, Medicine and Engineering. The first two years of the Medical course are already given.

The Anna Morgan School

DRAMATIC ART, PHYSICAL CULTURE, AND ALL BRANCHES PERTAINING TO THE ART OF EXPRESSION

Fine Arts Building : : : : : Chicago

THIS famous School, occupying large space in the beautiful Fine Arts building, has gained approving criticism from the most distinguished artists of the Old World and the New. The mechanical arts, by which so many elocutionists become mere automata, are discarded in the progressive methods of this School, which aims to develop the healthy and normal by the removal alike of natural blemishes and discordant mannerisms.

The culture of the voice is systematically attained by exercises in healthful breathing, tone production, clear enunciation, agreeable pitch, and in other ways; adapting the instruction to the individual case. Physical culture is taught by methods which produce a habitual deportment which is becoming and attractive. A gymnasium course is offered which includes all the exercises designed to promote health and beauty; and the School has a course in pantomime which is recognized as preeminent in effectiveness.

The Anna Morgan School of Expression is designed to bring out a healthy normal in the talk, walk, gesture and manners of the pupil; and as a complement to this culture trains the taste and the intellect by a course in literature, and by recitals which enable the pupil to overcome self-consciousness, and acquire ease and self-possession.

The Anna Morgan Studios are in themselves an embodiment of artistic expression, and in their completeness and beauty form a fit temple for the art which is here imparted upon methods at once unique and effective. Teachers' courses are a special feature. Miss Morgan has more applications for first-class teachers than she is able to supply.

THE KENWOOD INSTITUTE

An affiliated academy of the UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

A BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR GIRLS

ALL the courses preparatory to the University are offered, and the Academy Examinations of the University

are held at the School at the close of every quarter, under direction of the University Examiner.

Graduates of the KENWOOD INSTITUTE are received on certificate at the principal Women's Colleges. Students who do not wish to prepare for College have equal benefits of thorough instruction with those preparing for a College course, the only difference being in the quantity of work done.

40 East 47th Street . CHICAGO, ILL.

COURSES OF STUDY

THE courses in the Academic Department include all the studies necessary for admission to any College. There are also Primary and Intermediate Departments leading to the Academic Department. A Kindergarten Course, for children from 3 to 6 years old (including boys), is conducted in connection with the Institute.

Excellent accommodations are provided for a limited number of young ladies as boarding pupils.

Since this School was established in 1886 there have been placed in Universities and Colleges one hundred and eight students, and it has sustained an exceptionally high reputation for thorough instruction, and its excellent mental and moral atmosphere. The location of the Institute is near the Forty-Seventh Street Station of the Illinois Central Railway and electric cars pass the door. Correspondence as to particulars and terms invited.

MISS ANNICE E. BRADFORD BUTTS, A. M., PRINCIPAL.

The University School for Girls

(Affiliated with the University of Chicago)
21 and 22 LAKE SHORE DRIVE, CHICAGO

THIS boarding and day school for girls admits pupils in the Academic, Intermediate, Primary and Kindergarten departments. The principals and their academic assistants are women of experience and collegiate training, and the teachers in the three lower departments are graduates of Normal Training Schools.

The location of the school on one of the most select residence streets of Chicago, in two modern stone buildings which overlook Lake Michigan and which are in complete harmony in architecture and equipments, with their refined surroundings, typifies the exceptional excellence of its educational curricula, comprising courses of study planned to meet the entrance requirements of Bryn Mawr and all other colleges and universities that admit women. Prominent features are made of instruction in art and the history of art. A large recreation room, a complete newly equipped gymnasium where athletic work is taught by competent instructors, and athletic grounds near the school afford excellent facilities for physical culture. The school appointments are the best made, and an exceptionally large and well-selected library affords valuable aid to pupils.

Resident pupils have a pleasant, cultured home life amid refined surroundings and Chicago, with its advantages of great libraries and museums, and its attractions in art and music is fully enjoyed under the guidance of the principals and their assistants.

The moral atmosphere of the school accords with its intellectual excellence, and Bible teaching, free from sectarian bias, forms a constant feature in the training. Girls in the School Home are under charge of resident teachers and receive careful personal attention in sympathy with their individual needs. Full particulars on application to the principals.

The Oxford School For Boys

2141 Calumet Ave., Chicago

RICHARD H. ARMS, A. B., (Harvard)
Head Master.

THE OXFORD SCHOOL stands for everything that is highest and best in the education of a boy. The policy of maintaining an unusually large faculty in proportion to the number of pupils received, has given the work of the School peculiar effectiveness. A complete course of study for boys from the time they leave the kindergarten until they enter college or technical school is provided. The school aims not only to lay the foundations of culture and stimulate intellectual ideals, but also to develop sound principles, and to arouse early in a boy that regard for the integrity of his own character which will make of him a man and a citizen in the best sense. Excellent gymnasium and playground facilities are supplied. The School occupies a central, but quiet location in one of the best residence sections of the city. Its patronage is select.

"All technique is in the mind"—
Mrs. John Vance Cheney.

Training for Mind and Body—Department of Piano-Forte.

THE keynote of the training is mental poise. The method is definite mental discipline in the control of the organs of musical expression. The results are command of the body, command of the keyboard, a delightful and permanent technique attained in one-third of the time required in older methods; complete elimination of "nervousness" and "self-consciousness," natural and easy development of musical memory.

With children the methods of the new education in Piano-Forte technique, original with Mrs. Cheney, enable children of seven years to read readily compositions that are difficult for pupils of fourteen years, and children of ten years play with ease compositions that are standards on programs of artists.

THE SCIENCE OF SALESMANSHIP

It will be mailed free of cost to all readers of Who's Who in America. It will tell you the story of how the science of successful salesmanship has been formulated. The art of selling is as old as the relations of men, but the science which underlies that art is a 20th century product. The science of salesmanship amounts to the science of human influence and that in turn, amounts to the philosophy of true success in life.

The science involves studies in character building, character reading, analysis and psychology—all made so simple and plain that any one who can read can understand. Our list of students includes hundreds of the most progressive salesmen, proprietors and salesmanagers in the country. Write to-day for our 32-page book. THE WOMAN'S COLLEGE OF BALTIMORE

FOUNDED 1885; OPENED 1888.

Situation The Woman's College of Baltimore is situated near the northern boundaries of the city of Baltimore, Md., in the new and pleasant residence section, one hundred feet above tide-water.

Buildings The buildings are six in number—three devoted to instruction and administration, three to residence. All are new, cheerful and commodious, erected particularly for their respective purposes and containing the conveniences devised by modern architectural science. They are heated from a separate boiler house and lighted by electricity from the private plant of the College.

Educational Equipment Ample and thoroughly furnished laboratories facilitate study of the natural sciences by modern methods. The apparatus is of recent type, carefully selected. Maps, charts, engravings, photographs and cabinets of specimens and of objects illustrating natural history and the development of the race are liberally provided. There is a good, modern working library of about ten thousand volumes, while half a million volumes are at the service of students in public and institutional libraries easily accessible.

Course of Study The course of study includes prescribed subjects and elective subjects in about equal proportions. Students who wish to follow particular lines of study are enabled to lay a solid foundation for subsequent specialization. Elective courses are offered in Greek, Latin, French, Spanish, Italian, German, English Literature, including Old and Middle English, Mathematics, Geology, Mineralogy, Physics, Chemistry, Botany, Biology, History, Economics and Sociology. Upon the completion of a course usually requiring four years, the student is graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Physical Training and Hygiene Every candidate for the degree is required to pursue a course in physiology and hygiene. A commodious modern gymnasium provides systematic exercises according to the Ling, or Swedish, method under careful trainers and supervision of a physician specially prepared in mechanical therapeutics. Halls are provided for basket ball and courts for tennis and similar sports. Care is taken to prevent excess in these exercises.

Entrance Requirements These are the usual requirements of Eastern Colleges and should be met by graduates of good high schools in which at least one language in addition to Latin is embraced in the course of study. Certificates of preparation which furnish full details will be considered when offered by schools previously accredited and if found sufficient will be accepted as substitutes for examination, otherwise examinations will be necessary. Certificates of the College Entrance Examination Board are accepted.

Numbers The College is now (1908) entering upon its sixteenth session. Its alumnæ number nearly five hundred. Recent graduating classes have numbered from fifty to sixty-five. The freshman class numbers, and for the present is limited to, one hundred and twenty-five. Less than one-third of the students are from the immediate vicinity, the remainder are from all parts of the country. All religious denominations are liberally represented.

Application for Admission Programs of the College courses, regulations for the government of the residence halls, blank forms of application and information upon special subjects will be promptly furnished upon request addressed to

THE REGISTRAR

Woman's College, Baltimore, Md.

Notre Dame of Maryland

College for Women and Preparatory School for Girls
Conducted by the School SISTERS of NOTRE DAME

CHARLES STREET AVENUE BALTIMORE, MD.

Notre Dame of Maryland is conducted by the School Sisters of Notre Dame, a religious ;iety of the Catholic Church devoted exclusively to educational work. The Institution is lo-ted in the most desirable part of Baltimore County, three miles north of Washington Monu-ent, and in the immediate neighborhood of Roland Park, Baltimore's most beautiful suburb.

The Buildings are large, well furnished and provided with the best sanitary and hygienic aveniences. The study halls are bright, cheerful and commodious, and numerous social halls e provided for recreation and amusement. Well fitted laboratories, a large, comprehensive rary and all other requisites for study are included in the equipments, and there is a new apel of Romanesque architecture.

The Surrounding Country is noted for its magnificent scenery, and the invigorating nosphere is at once conducive to study and healthful exercise. The grounds, consisting of venty acres, give the students the advantage of daily exercise in the open air, and they are en-iraged to take an active part in out-door sports, such as basket ball, tennis, croquet, etc.

Notre Dame of Maryland consists of a College; an Academy that prepares for the Col-ge or for other colleges; and Grammar and Primary Departments.

In the College Department two regular courses, the Classic and the Literary, are of-ed, each covering four years, and leading to its respective baccalaureate degree. Thorough irses in Music and Art are also offered, many taking these subjects in connection with col-iate studies in a five year course. Besides the regular teaching faculty, lectures are provided eminent scholars, clergy and lay.

The Preparatory Schools, including Primary, Grammar and Academic Departments, h extending through a period of four years, constitute a thorough preparation for the College.

The Girls' Latin School of Baltimore

THE GIRLS' LATIN SCHOOL OF BALTIMORE is a college prepara-tory school for boarding and day pupils.

The aim of the school is to provide a symmetrical education, not de-ficient in any particular of intellectual, moral, religious, social or æsthetic culture, and emphasis is placed on all matters pertaining to the physical welfare of each student so that she may have the health and strength re-quisite for mental efficiency.

The Girls' Latin School is situated in the northern part of Baltimore, the highest and newest section of the city, amid pleasant surroundings. The buildings are large, modern and admirably equipped, the moral and religious influence the best, and the courses of instruction thorough. The faculty is composed of graduates of our best universities and colleges.

Alumnæ of the Girls' Latin School have uniformly made good college records. Certificate privileges are accorded to the graduates of this school by The Woman's College of Baltimore, Vassar College and by Smith College.

Instruction in Art and Piano under excellent teachers is provided for students who desire these courses, as a complement to the regular academic work.

Full particulars can be obtained on application to

MOUNT DE SALES ACADEMY OF THE VISITATION,

CATONSVILLE, MD.

Established in 1852 and ever since most successfully conducted by the Sisters of the Visitation. It is about one mile distant from Catonsville, Md., and within easy reach of Baltimore and Ellicott City, the electric line running within two hundred yards of the Academy. The grounds standing over five hundred feet above sea level, command beautiful views of the adjacent country, the Patapsco River and the Chesapeake Bay. Pleasant groves and play-grounds are allotted for tennis, golf, basket-ball and other games.

The Academy is a large, substantial building, the interior arrangements of which include all improvements, appliances and scientific apparatus required in a modern course of study and all provision is made for the comfort of pupils. The sanitary arrangements are complete and modern. The water, supplied from two mineral springs, one impregnated with iron, the other with magnesia, has been examined by G. W. Lehmann, Ph. D., of Baltimore and pronounced absolutely free from contamination of any kind. An infirmary, detached from the main building, assures requisite quiet in ordinary illness and immunity from contagion. There is a large recreation hall and gymnasium for exercise during inclement weather, and a grand concert hall with stage.

There are elementary, intermediate, academic and senior departments in the English course (in which Latin is a requirement of the four Senior classes), and there is a primary department for pupils between the ages of five and ten years. There are also complete courses in stenography, typewriting, elocution, music, art and foreign languages. The Academy Library is well furnished with works of reference, classics of American and Foreign Literature, and standard works of fiction; and there is a handsome reading-room with the latest magazines, etc.

The home life of the Academy is pleasant and refined, the social standing of the pupils is such as to render mutual intercourse congenial. The order and discipline enforced have no element of harshness. Pupils of every denomination are received; to children of Catholic parents special instruction in Christian Doctrine is given. A system of prizes and academic honors is used to stimulate and encourage thorough work.

WHEATON SEMINARY

NORTON, MASSACHUSETTS

Rev. Samuel V. Cole, D. D., President.

FOUNDED in 1834 by Judge Laban Wheaton, in memory of his daughter, this seminary has been ranked as one of the foremost institutions in the country for the education of young women. It occupies a tract of about forty acres, is located in large and attractive buildings the midst of trees and shrubbery, and is in the center of the village of Norton, thirty miles om Boston, seven from Taunton, and within six hours' ride of New York.

Being an endowed institution the Seminary has always been able to secure the services of illful and experienced instructors, as well as specialists who lecture upon varied educational emes. Thorough work and individual attention to the needs of each pupil make Wheaton nous for its educational results with students.

The Seminary, though unsectarian, is thoroughly Christian, and with the training of mind d spirit is a parallel development of the body, through the facilities afforded by the new brick mnasium, with resident instructor, and by tennis, basket ball, field hockey and golf.

There is a four years' college preparatory course and an advanced course of two years more high school graduates and others who do not care to go to college. Native teachers in French d German and skilled instruction in Art and Music.

HARVARD UNIVERSITY

Harvard University comprises the following departments or schools:

Harvard College offers elective courses of study in arts and sciences leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

The Lawrence Scientific School offers grouped courses of study in pure and applied science and in the arts, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in the following subjects: Civil Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mining and Metallurgy, Architecture, Landscape Architecture, Forestry, Chemistry, Geology, Biology, Anatomy and Physiology, Science for Teachers, and General Science.

The Graduate School offers elective courses of study in arts and sciences for persons holding a first degree in arts or sciences; and admits those who fulfill certain qualifications to candidacy for the higher degrees in arts and sciences—Master of Arts, Master of Science, Doctor of Philosophy, and Doctor of Science.

The Divinity School offers elective courses in the several branches of theological training, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Divinity. Graduate students in theology are also received. Members of the school who are properly qualified, may be admitted to candidacy for the degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy, under the sanction of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

The Law School offers courses of study prescribed in the first year, and elective in the second and third years, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Laws—these courses are designed to give such training in the fundamental principles of English and American law as will constitute the best preparation for the practice of the profession in any place where that system of law prevails.

The Medical School offers courses of study, prescribed in the first three years and elective in the fourth year, leading to the degree of Doctor of Medicine. Graduate students in Medicine are also received.

The Dental School offers courses of instruction in the theory and practice of dentistry, leading to the degree of Doctor of Dental Medicine.

The School of Agriculture and Horticulture, known as the Bussey Institution, offers systematic instruction in Agriculture, Gardening, and Land-Surveying, and in Chemistry and Natural History as applied to Agriculture, Horticulture, and Forestry.

The University contains the following collections and scientific establishments: the University Library, and its departmental branches; the Astronomical Observatory; the Arnold Arboretum; the Botanic Garden; the Gray Herbarium; the Museum of Comparative Zoölogy; the Botanical Museum; the Geological Museum; the Mineralogical Museum; the Peabody Museum of American Archaeology and Ethnology; the Semitic Museum; the Fogg Museum of Art; the Germanic Museum.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology

BOSTON, MASS.

ORIGINALLY chartered in 1861 and beginning its science and technical courses in 1865, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has become the largest college of applied science in the United States. Its first course began with 5 teachers and 25 students; its enrollment for 1900-1901 was 1,277 students with 181 instructors of all grades.

The Institute of Technology offers thirteen different courses, each of four years' duration, as follows:

Civil Engineering,	Electrical Engineering,	Chemistry,	Naval Architecture,
Mechanical Engineering,	Chemical Engineering,	Physics,	General Studies.
Mining Engineering and Metallurgy,	Sanitary Engineering,	Biology,
	Architecture,	Geology,

Each of these courses leads to the degree of Bachelor of Science (S. B.) and advanced courses lead to the degrees of Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy.

The register of 1900 showed an attendance from 38 states and territories (including Hawaii), from Canada and Mexico, and from England, France and Germany. The advantage to English students which the possession of a common language gives to this school over those of Continental Europe has led the Institute to establish entrance examinations at London, the first of which was held June 27 and 28, 1901.

THE BROWNE AND NICHOLS SCHOOL FOR BOYS

20 GARDEN ST. . CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

THE present Browne and Nichols School dates back to 1883, when Mr. George H. Browne and Mr. Edgar H. Nichols opened their Fitting and Developing School, which graduated its first class in 1885. The course of study adopted in 1883, and published in its present form in 1885, antedates by several years the fourfold division into Language, Science, Mathematics, and History, recommended by the National Association, in 1890. New buildings in 1894 and 1897.

Special features of the School are: 1st. Its organization into departments with a specialist in charge of each, who conducts the pupil through his studies in that department from start to finish; 2d. The extension of this fourfold organization into a preparatory department (since 1889), thereby saving over a year in the continuous education of boys between the ages of 9 and 17; 3d. The making of English, Modern Languages, Science and History of equal dignity with Classics and Mathematics; 4th. Methods that make boys think for themselves—power rather than marks.

The location near Harvard University, which most of the graduates enter, and the privileges of the University museums, collections, and free lectures, are a unique advantage. The School has the high endorsement of Harvard professors, whose experience with its students has been uniformly gratifying, and of patrons who have tested its system by results.

The school ranks, therefore, as one of the best in the country devoted to preparing pupils for the University or the Technical School; and offers special attractions for the education of younger sons of families temporarily living near Boston while older sons are in College or Scientific School.

TUFTS COLLEGE

CHARTERED 1852. OPENED 1855.

ELMER H. CAPEN, LL. D., President.

TUFTS College is one of the larger collegiate institutions and is distinguished for the broadness of the opportunities its courses afford for general and technical education. It received its name in honor of the donor of its site, Charles Tufts, but others aided generously in its founding and subsequent endowment. The scope of the college was broadened by the addition of scientific courses, technical and professional schools, and in 1892 the College was opened in all its departments, to women on the same terms as to men. The College is governed by a Board of Trustees and a Board of Overseers.

ORGANIZATION.

The scope of the College now comprises the following divisions, each with its special faculty:

THE FACULTY OF ARTS AND SCIENCES, giving the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and for special courses in science and engineering Bachelor of Science; also the graduate degrees of Master of Arts, Master of Science and Doctor of Philosophy.

THE DIVINITY SCHOOL, with its course leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Sacred Theology in five years.

THE MEDICAL SCHOOL, in large new building on Huntington Avenue, Boston, with a course leading to the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

THE DENTAL SCHOOL, the same location as the Medical School, with a course leading to the degree of Doctor of Dental Medicine.

Full provision is made for laboratory work in the scientific branches.

THE BROMFIELD-PEARSON SCHOOL is preparatory to the engineering departments in the College.

THE SUMMER SCHOOLS of Biology, Mathematics and English furnish excellent opportunities for valuable vacation work in connection with the College courses, and also excellent facilities for teachers in secondary schools.

THE location of the College is four miles from Boston on the Boston & Maine Railroad. The Postoffice address is Tufts College, Mass. The fifteen College buildings and campus are on a commanding hill and occupy a tract of over 100 acres. All the College buildings are supplied with water by the Metropolitan Water System. This in connection with the healthful location and perfect drainage assure the highest sanitary conditions. Extensive and well appointed laboratories are provided for work in chemistry, drawing, shop-work, physics, engineering, and all scientific and technical subjects, and the Barnum Museum, with its excellent and complete zoological and botanical collections adds largely to the efficiency of the biological laboratories in the same building. Dormitories are large, excellently arranged and furnished, and are on the campus, near the chapel.

Full particulars are furnished in the large catalogue of the College.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY

THE name and location of Boston University predetermined its character. Established in the heart of the literary metropolis of America, it could meet the just expectations of the public only by organizing as a metropolitan university of the most advanced and comprehensive type. Its founders believed, with rare earnestness, that the highest of all educational ideals are the distinctively Christian, and that the distinctively Christian ideals, instead of isolating individuals or segregating classes, associate men and women in school, as in home and state and church. Accordingly they had the honor of organizing the first university ever planned from the start and throughout with no individual disabilities or class discriminations on the ground of race, nationality, sex, or other heredity. As an expression of their faith, they gave to it at the start more than one and a half millions of dollars. They at once instituted a reform in professional training.

The University was the first in the United States to present in Theology, Law and Medicine uniform graded courses of instruction covering three scholastic years, and to require in each the full three years of study. It was also the first to establish a four-years' course in Medicine, and to reinstate the long-lost baccalaureate degrees in Medicine and Surgery. Its advanced standards and broad principles soon gave it a larger number of students in its three professional schools than were found in any other American university. They also attracted wide attention and interest in Europe. The National University at Athens and the Royal University at Rome, both newly reorganized on exceptionally liberal bases, entered into special agreements with the Boston institution for mutual co-operation. In this way the University gave an important impulse to the movement which later resulted in the establishment of an American School of Archæology in Athens, and, later still, one in Rome. See Thirteenth Annual Report of the University, pp. 5-17.

More than four thousand have already been graduated at the University, and among their names may be found those of eminent senators, governors, bishops and judges; metropolitan pastors, lawyers and physicians; editors and authors; founders of missions, college professors and presidents of universities, American and foreign. At the time of the annexation of the Hawaiian Republic four Boston University graduates were in the Islands, and of these one was the Minister of Foreign Affairs, another a Judge in the Supreme Court, the third the Deputy Attorney-General of the Republic, and the Fourth its Chief Marshal. Shortly after, another, residing in China, was called to the presidency of the Imperial University of Nankin.

Not an honorary degree has ever been conferred by the University. Persons desiring further information as to its history and its metropolitan advantages are invited to address

QUINCY MANSION SCHOOL

FOR GIRLS

THIS school is in Wollaston Park, in the city of Quincy, fifteen minutes distant from the centre of Boston by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. This nearness to Boston is one of the advantages afforded by this school, as the art, music and shopping centres are as easily and quickly reached as from many parts of the city itself. There are three fine buildings and nearly eight acres of beautiful grounds, comprising lawns, gardens, groves and playgrounds. This was the finest part of the old Quincy estate, which has been for more than two hundred years under careful cultivation. The spot is ideal in situation and picturesque surroundings. Noble trees and beautiful hedges shut in the playgrounds, where the girls have excellent opportunities for exercise and games. In healthfulness no place could excel this locality. The sanitary arrangements of the buildings are excellent and the water is from the Metropolitan System.

The home life, under the personal supervision of Mrs. Willard, is one of culture and refinement, tending to the best mental and moral training of each girl. The school is undenominational, but positively Christian in influence, and the Bible instruction is given without any sectarian bias.

The courses of study are varied to meet the diversified needs and wishes of parents and pupils. Certain studies, English, History and Mathematics are required for graduation; but great variety is allowed in electives.

The regular courses are designed for students not intending to enter college. There is also a College Preparatory Course, meeting the highest requirements of collegiate entrance examinations, and the certificate, given those who successfully complete this course, entitles them to enter the colleges for women which accept certificates, and also the leading co-educational colleges of New England.

There is a large corps of teachers, both men and women, graduates of colleges or of technical schools, who give personal attention to the needs of each pupil. Special attention given to graduates of high schools. The advantages offered in Music, Art and the Languages are of the best. Frequent excursions to Boston and to the many places of historic interest in Eastern Massachusetts.

The illustrated prospectus refers to many well-known people in all parts of the country. For full particulars address Dr. H. M. WILLARD, Principal.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

FOUNDED by Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Durant, to furnish a liberal education of the highest grade to young women; incorporated 1870; opened to students 1875; first degrees conferred 1878. The corps of instructors numbers eighty.

Located in its own extensive grounds of hill and meadow, bordering upon a small lake. There are two large halls of instruction and residence, eight smaller dormitories, a chapel, art building, music hall, chemical laboratory, observatory, several society houses, and other buildings. College is undenominational, but distinctively Christian. The Library has 52,000 volumes.

Requirements for admission, the same as those of the other leading colleges; courses thorough, with generous provision for electives. The degree of B. A. is given to all students who complete the regular college course of four years; of M. A. for one full year of graduate work.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE, WELLESLEY, MASS.

Walnut Hill School for Girls

NATICK, MASSACHUSETTS

THIS School, which begins its Eleventh Year in September, 1906, is located at Natick, Mass., seventeen miles from Boston, and two miles west of Wellesley College. Its buildings, grounds, tennis courts and basket-ball field occupy a tract of ten acres.

The three large buildings embody the best ideas of construction and equipment for school and home purposes, with careful arrangement for sanitation, ventilation and heating.

The home life is pleasant, surrounded with conditions favorable to the best development of the pupils.

Two courses of study are offered: (I) a four years' course which meets the requirements for admission to the best colleges; the school certificate is given to those who complete this course and admits students to Wellesley, Vassar, Smith, Mt. Holyoke and other colleges without further examinations; (II) a general course selected from the list of studies offered, and equivalent in difficulty and amount to college preparation.

The aim of the school is to train its graduates to be women of Christian character, fine scholarship, good health and cultivated and womanly manners.

DANA HALL SCHOOL

WELLESLEY

FIFTEEN miles from Boston on the Boston & Albany Railroad, is placed by official statistics at the head of Massachusetts towns for healthfulness; and the surroundings of the school are full of beauty. Dana Hall and its cottages add to attractiveness of location the advantages of perfect ventilation and drainage, pure water supply and the most excellent sanitary arrangements. The school playstead furnishes opportunities for basket ball and lawn tennis, while the excellent country roads present great attractions for walking or bicycle riding.

The Assembly hall, class rooms and music rooms are all especially commodious, and there is a large and fully equipped gymnasium.

The School is lodged in a large private home, and there are also commodious cottages, rooms being arranged for one hundred and sixty resident pupils. The home life is that of self respecting discipline with all the refinements of a cultured Christian household.

A BOARDING AND DAY SCHOOL FOR GIRLS
WELLESLEY . . . MASS.

IN 1881, when the Preparatory Department of Wellesley College was discontinued, Dana Hall School was founded by the Misses Eastman. It has continued with undeviating success the work of thoroughly preparing girls for college; and it has recently added a General Course for non-collegians, which includes more advanced work in Literature and the Languages, History, History of Art, and Science.

While Dana Hall is successor to the Wellesley Preparatory School and in practice largely retains that character, the course is also a thorough preparation for all other women's and co-educational colleges. Pupils receiving certificates from Dana Hall are admitted without further examination at Wellesley, Smith, Vassar, Cornell and Mount Holyoke colleges.

The courses are comprehensive and admirably arranged, and as to the quality of instruction, high ideals have been set and closely adhered to. The faculty, headed by Miss Helen Temple Cooke, as principal, with Mrs. Harriet E. Page and Miss Jeannie Evans as associate principals, numbers twenty-six. The courses in Latin, Greek, Science and Mathematics are in charge of teachers trained in Wellesley College. The work in English is conducted by teachers trained in Radcliffe and Wellesley, and the French and German languages are taught by foreign instructors.

The School is particularly distinguished for its advanced work in languages and literature and its specially full courses in History of Art and History of Music. Dana Hall continues to improve wherever improvement seems possible and now has students not only from all parts of the United States, but also from Cuba and Honolulu, and from Germany, India and other foreign countries.

Dana Hall School is strictly undenominational, but the Bible is read daily and studied in weekly lessons.

NEW ENGLAND CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

HUNTINGTON AVENUE,
CORNER OF GAINSBOROUGH STREET,
BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS.

Founded in 1853 by Dr. Eben Tourjée, original introducer into America of the Conservatory System of musical instruction, and who was its director until his death in 1891. Mr. Carl Faelten was director from 1891 to 1897, and since 1897 Geo W. Chadwick, M. A., has been director.

The new building, entirely devoted to educational purposes, is the most completely equipped conservatory building in the world. The larger auditorium, Jordan Hall, seats over 1,000 and its equipment includes a large electric pipe organ, a stage, scenery and every equipment for orchestral and choral concerts and operatic performances. There are thirteen pipe organs in the building, more than double the number of organs under any other single roof in the world. The location is directly in the art center of Boston.

There is a faculty of sixty-five members, and the Conservatory has over two thousand students annually. The courses cover a comprehensive range, including all departments of vocal and instrumental music, musical composition, theory, harmony, as well as related branches such as piano tuning, elocution, oratory and modern languages. The new School of Opera, established two years ago under direction of Signor Oreste Bimboni, offers unequalled opportunities; and the Students' Orchestra, under personal supervision of Mr. Chadwick, the director, is another prominent feature among the many which make this the foremost music school in America. The diplomas and certificates of this Conservatory represent thorough musical education, and its alumni hold leading positions and prestige in the musical world. For prospectus, etc., address

PHILLIPS ACADEMY

ANDOVER, MASSACHUSETTS

Founded at Andover, Mass., 1778, by the gifts of Hon. Samuel Phillips and his brother, Hon. John Phillips.

Others have added to the original foundations by endowments of several kinds, and various scholarships have been established. The latest of the larger benefactions is the establishment of an entire new Department of American Archaeology, with an imposing building, a valuable collection and a $100,000 endowment.

Phillips Academy has established very high repute for its broad scholarship, for its elevated ideals and especially for the practical success which has been obtained by its students.

In all the leading professions and every useful avenue of endeavor, its alumni are found among the leaders. In all the great colleges, and particularly Yale and Harvard, the graduates of this academy have for years been distinguished for their thoroughness of preparation, and success in their college work. The academy has also done a useful work in the education of boys who have not gone to college. Especially is it distinguished for its American, democratic spirit; the sons of the wealthiest men in the country mingling with boys who are working their way through school.

The courses of the academy have thoroughly adjusted and adapted themselves to the highest collegiate requirements. The ability of its faculty, the excellence of its equipment, its library and laboratory facilities, the prestige of honorable history and other advantages and achievements have placed Phillips Academy in the front rank of American schools.

The Commonwealth Avenue School

A Home and Day School for Girls

AN institution which ranks in the highest class among girls' schools. It was established September, 1882, by the Misses Hannah E. and Julia R. Gilman, now associate principals, and is under the personal supervision of Miss Fanny C. Guild, Acting Principal, who has had extended experience in private and preparatory school work.

Two Courses are Offered:

THE COLLEGE PREPARATORY COURSE meets the requirements for admission to the best colleges.

THE GENERAL COURSE is designed to give a broad and liberal education to students not contemplating a college course, and offers advanced work to those who have completed a high school or an academic course.

The department of modern languages is in charge of competent foreign instructors assisted by American teachers, and is exceptionally thorough. The course in the History of Art prepares for intelligent foreign travel and the appreciation of works of art.

The aims of the school have always been high scholarship and thorough work. Each pupil receives careful individual attention. The number of home pupils is limited to twelve, and the home life is such as to develop the highest type of womanhood.

The school is situated on the finest avenue in the city, within five minutes' walk of the Back Bay Park, and all of the surroundings are conducive to the highest physical and educational welfare of pupils.

A Home School for Boys ❧ WABAN, MASSACHUSETTS

OCCUPYING a picturesque and healthful location at Waban, in the most attractive section of Newton and ten miles from Boston, the Waban School, housed in stately buildings, well equipped both for school and home life, offers a thorough training for boys, physically, mentally and morally, preparing them for the best colleges or for active business life.

The discipline is strict, but not irksome. The associations are such as to establish high ideals and bring out gentlemanly deportment. Wholesome food properly served, carefully directed athletic and gymnasium training and school sports, and a happy school life secure symmetrical physical development and a remarkable health record.

A corps of carefully selected teachers, in sufficient numbers to insure individual attention to the needs of each pupil, has gained the school a wide reputation for sound scholarship.

The course of study includes a junior grade, covering two years, and a senior grade which covers the usual four years' work of high school and the extra work required to enter those colleges which have the highest entrance requirements. Its pupils are thoroughly prepared and the school stands in high and honorable repute.

ROCK RIDGE HALL

A SCHOOL FOR BOYS — At Wellesley Hills Massachusetts

ELLESLEY HILLS, a residential village thirteen miles west of Boston, has long been noted for its dry, porous soil, pure water and invigorating air. It is situated in the midst of a region that has been endowed richly, as well as rendered famous historically, by gen-ons of sturdy New Englanders.

While all the studies which lead to entrance at the best colleges and scientific schools are ed at Rock Ridge Hall, the chief aim is to fit boys thoroughly for the great responsibilities ell as for the great opportunities of American life. Boys whose parents wish for them a ol life which is fuller and richer than that of the public schools, yet one far more carefully ted than that of the colleges are especially welcome. Such a life is particularly advisable he boy who is to be sent to one of the larger colleges with its complete freedom, and for the who is to go into business with its complete restraint.

While every effort is made to secure the best of instruction, a hearty wholesome school life, the Highest American Ideals, is regarded as of the first importance. Abundant rtunities are offered for physical training. Three hours per day are allowed for recreation sports on the athletic fields and elsewhere while the new gymnasium with its equipment of oughly modern apparatus is surpassed by but few college gymnasiums even.

Liberal provision has been made for shop work in the Mechanic Arts and laboratory work ysics and Chemistry, for the peculiar educational training imparted to fingers, muscles, and n even by this work cannot be ignored by any school whose graduates are to take their es in the ranks of this active, highly mechanical American people.

The Allen School of West Newton, Mass.

A Distinguished Record. Founded half a century ago under the direction of Horace Mann, this school has remained an exemplar of useful pioneer work on lines of educational progress. In it one of the first kindergartens in America was organized; the first gymnastic apparatus was used in it and the first Normal School had its second home here in 1848. Between four and five thousand students have been instructed here, coming from every state and territory in the U. S. and 40 foreign countries.

An Honorable Backing. The present corporation includes some of the most prominent men of Newton; the list of references presents men of international reputation.

A New Equipment. The new school house approaches the perfection of opportunity. It contains laboratory for sciences, workshop for manual training, library, maps and illustrative material, pianos and a two-manual pipe organ, gymnasium of large area, and a white tile 33-foot swimming bath that boys and girls find irresistible. The environment is beautiful. Opportunity for all sports.

Middlesex School

Concord, Massachusetts

A BOYS' SCHOOL of the best type, with its courses of study designed to occupy seven years in preparation for college. While the main features are thus governed by college requirements, the course is not limited by them, but also includes a wide range of instruction in science, history, and literature, by class-room work and evening lectures. The Masters are Harvard graduates, and the methods of instruction are based on sound pedagogical principles.

The school is planned upon the cottage system. Each of the houses accomodates about twenty boys, a house master and an assistant master, but all the boys take their meals in a common dining hall.

Two periods of manual training weekly are required of all the boys, the course including drawing, modeling, carving and carpentry. For physical training, large play grounds, golf links and other facilities for outdoor exercise and sports are furnished. Gymnasium work is required in weather which does not permit outdoor exercise.

The religious influence of the school is vigorous but entirely non-sectarian, and on Sunday each boy attends the nearest church of his own denomination.

THE Eleventh Year of this School opens on the 5th day of October, 1908. It is a complete School for Girls, covering the scholastic life from the Primary Department, for pupils under ten years of age, through Junior and Intermediate Departments to the Senior Department, in which pupils are fitted for the best colleges or, if a college course is not contemplated, can take a general course composed of certain required studies and a wide range of electives.

The Day School attracts pupils from the best homes of Boston and vicinity, and the Home Department receives a limited number of resident pupils carefully chosen with a view to ensuring the most cordial and agreeable home relations. These pupils are provided with the comforts and luxuries of a perfectly appointed home.

The corps of teachers, selected with especial care, is able, and sufficiently large to insure individual attention to the needs of each pupil. No pupil is permitted to undertake more work than she can do well, but pupils requiring special preparation, or needing help on account of absence or for any other reason, will receive careful and painstaking assistance. GROTON SCHOOL

THE School was founded in 1884. Its object is to supply a thorough education. Every endeavor is made to cultivate manly Christian character, with reference to moral and physical, as well as intellectual development. According to the Regulations, the Head Master is a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The studies are not limited to the subjects required for College Examinations, but the Curriculum is to some extent governed by these Examinations. All boys are expected to take the regular School course.

The names of applicants for admission may be entered for two consecutive years. Three vacancies are retained each year for brothers of boys who have been, or who are, members of the School. These vacancies are filled, like all others, in the order of application. Boys entering must be at least twelve, and not more than fourteen years of age.

Every boy must bring a letter from his last teacher testifying as to his ability, industry and moral character. Failure to conform to the standard of the School in any respect renders a boy liable to suspension or dismissal. An applicant for admission to the School is required to pass an examination in writing, spelling, geography, elementary arithmetic, Latin grammar and easy Latin composition. A certificate of proficiency in reading is also required from the boy's last teacher. The requirements for examination may be more definitely learned upon application to the Head Master. Examination papers will be sent in May to boys who are to enter the following autumn, and failure to pass the examination will disqualify a boy for admission.

If a boy is to be withdrawn, at least two months' notice must be given. It is expected that any loss arising from a failure to comply with this condition will be made good by the parent or guardian of the boy concerned

The charge for tuition and board is $700 per annum, payable half yearly in advance. Washing, $30 extra per annum.

ST. PAUL'S SCHOOL

CONCORD, N. H.

THIS School was founded in 1855 by George Cheyne Shattuck, M. D., of Boston. The original gift consisted of a dwelling house, grist mill, saw mill, together with several out-buildings, and fifty-five and one-third acres of land. None of the buildings remain. At the present date St. Paul's School owns more than nine hundred acres of land and nearly sixty buildings. This property is held by a corporation of nine members with charter from the State. The School opened in April, 1856, with three boys. The Rev. Henry Augustus Coit was rector from 1856 to the time of his death, February 5th, 1895. The Rev. Joseph Howland Coit has been rector since June, 1895.

During the session 1902-1903 the number of scholars in attendance was 340, the number of masters was 42.

The school is divided into six forms, of which the sixth is the highest. There is also an Upper Remove designed for boys wishing to prepare advanced subjects for college or to wait a year after they have completed preparation before entering.

The School has two courses, classical and scientific. It is also divided into three families: Lower School, Middle School and Upper School.

Hanover, N. H.

Chartered by the Province of New Hampshire, December 18, 1769, as the outgrowth of Moor's Indian Charity School, established at Lebanon, Conn., December 18, 1754, by Rev. Eleazer Wheelock, D. D., who afterward became the first president of the College, and named it for the Earl of Dartmouth, who gave it ten thousand pounds. The first class of four students was graduated in 1771. Many of the most distinguished Americans have been among its alumni.

The College offers three parallel courses, each of four years duration.

Classical Course, leading to B. A. degree.
Latin-Scientific Course, leading to B. L. degree.
Chandler Scientific Course, leading to B. S. degree.

The Chandler degree is from the Chandler School of Science and the Arts, established by bequest of Abiel Chandler, 1851.

Graduate and Professional Schools:

The Thayer School of Civil Engineering, established by bequest of Abiel Chandler, 1867, is a graduate school, with 2-year course leading to degree of C. E.

The Amos Tuck School of Administration and Finance, established 1900, has a 2-year course.

The Dartmouth Medical School dates from 1798, and associated with it is the Mary Hitchcock Hospital.

The buildings, equipment, library and laboratories are in all respects adec and complete. A summer school in charge of members of the Faculty, has been es hed, principally for the benefit of teachers in grammar and high schools.

Princeton University

PRINCETON NEW JERSEY

History . . . Incorporated by Royal Charter on October 22, 1746, as the college of New Jersey, and opened in May, 1747, at Elizabethtown. It was removed to Newark the same year, and soon after to Princeton, where the first college building, Nassau Hall, was erected in 1754-5. The college was rechartered by the Legislature of New Jersey after the Revolution, and on the 150th anniversary of the College, October 22, 1896, the name of Princeton University was assumed.

Courses of Study . . . . The sole course of instruction in the College continued to be that based upon the classical languages and leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts until 1873, since which year the part of the college continuing that curriculum has been known as the Academic Department. In 1873 the School of Science was founded, upon an endowment of Mr. John C. Green, and since then the degree of Bachelor of Science has also been offered. The department of Civil Engineering was added in 1875, and the department of Electrical Engineering in 1889.

Graduate Courses . . . The Graduate Department was organized in 1877, and created as a separate school in 1901, and gives instruction to those holding first degrees—particularly to those who are proceeding to the degrees of Master of Arts, Master of Science, Doctor of Philosophy and Doctor of Science.

Its Graduates and Faculty. The graduates of the University have taken very high rank in public life, the learned professions, and the business world, and from the first the college has been justly celebrated for sound scholarship in its faculty and able direction by those having administrative charge of the college. Substantial endowments, excellent equipments and numerous electives enable students to attain a high degree of scholarly attainments directed into those channels best adapted to their future lines of activity.

CORNELL UNIVERSITY

CORNELL UNIVERSITY was founded in 1865 by the combined bounty of the National Government and of Ezra Cornell. Its policy has always been shaped by Mr. Cornell's happy phrase, "I would found an institution where any person can find instruction in any study."

The property of the University is now about $11,000,000, mainly derived from an investment in Western timber lands conceived by Ezra Cornell and carried out by him and by Hon. Henry W. Sage.

The whole number of teachers in the University for 1902-1903 was 434, the total registration 3,453, of whom about 1,750 are from New York State, and 1,700 from 43 other states and territories in this country, and twenty foreign countries, representing every continent on the globe.

The University library comprises about 270,000 volumes, and is endowed with book funds in excess of $300,000. The average annual growth of the library is in excess of 13,000 volumes.

Located on a bluff 300 feet high, looking for twenty miles down the windings of Lake Cayuga, and with grounds comprising 440 acres, Cornell has long been reputed the most picturesquely located University in the World.

Cornell University now comprises the following colleges and departments:

THE University Preparatory School was founded in 1891 for the purpose of fitting boys for Cornell University. It has since broadened its curriculum so as to prepare for all colleges, and it now has representatives in nearly all the leading colleges and universities in the East and in the Middle West. Its certificate has invariably been accepted by all higher institutions whose admission requirements permit this method of entrance. Instruction is by experienced specialists only. Regular four-year courses of study are offered, but these courses are sufficiently elastic to enable a student to adapt his work to fit the entrance requirements for any college, and, at the same time, become a graduate from the school. Owing to the advanced character of the courses offered, a student who has nearly completed his preparation may, while finishing such work, do a considerable part of his first year of collegiate study.

The school buildings consist of a recitation hall and four beautifully furnished dormitories, with gas and electric light, steam and furnace heat. The rooms are arranged single and en suite, all elegantly carpeted and furnished. Each house has the advantage of the best methods of sanitation. Special attention is given to the physical as well as the mental well-being of all boys committed to our care. There has never been a case of contagious or infectious disease in the history of the school. The table is unsurpassed. All drinking water used in dining room and dormitories is from the Slaterville Springs.

A Junior House, with a separate system of regulations, is provided for the younger boys. These boys are given the instruction and oversight suitable to their age.

Large Illustrated Catalogue, giving details regarding the school, expenses, etc., sent on application.

FOUNDED BY HENRY WELLS	WELLS COLLEGE AURORA .. NEW YORK	COLLEGE FOR YOUNG WOMEN.

The Thirty-Sixth Academic Year of Wells College Began September 18th, 1903.

COMPLETE College Courses, covering four years, are offered, leading to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts. The Degree of Master of Arts is conferred upon those who have received the Degree of Bachelor of Arts and have satisfactorily completed one year of graduate work.

The College is undenominational, but the surroundings and the college life are conducive to the formation of refined Christian character, and the system of self government in force results in an excellent and orderly discipline.

Systematic gymnasium work and facilities for out-door sports—tennis, basket ball and boating—are provided.

Aurora is delightfully situated on the east shore of Cayuga Lake, and is on the Auburn & Ithaca branch of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

For further information address,

WELLS COLLEGE AURORA, NEW YORK.

Mohegan Lake School--(Military)

Mohegan, Westchester County, New York.

Established in 1880 to prepare young men for college and for business life, Mohegan Lake School has won its high position by a persistent adherence to its ideals. It enjoys the approval of its patrons and the love of its students and its alumni.

Careful selection of students is a primary factor in the success of the school. No boy is received without satisfactory evidence that he is worthy of a place in a refined home.

Scholarship is secured by the scholastic and pedagogic ability of the instructors, and also by their personal character and their sympathy with boy life. The aim is to develop manliness and maturity of thought and character by giving attention to the individual needs of the students.

Military Difcipline is introduced as a part of each day's life because drill and routine are conducive to habits of promptness, obedience, and system, and besides promote physical culture and secure erectness of carriage. Military work, however, is never permitted to interfere with scholastic duties.

The Location of the School is ideal. It is on the banks of Lake Mohegan, a beautiful sheet of water one mile and a half long, half a mile wide, and nearly 500 feet above the Hudson River level. The situation is healthful, the sanitary arrangements perfect, and the buildings well fitted and excellently adapted to the needs of a school. The School is forty-five miles from New York City, in the beautiful region of the Highlands of the Hudson.

The Courses of Study prepare boys for all colleges, universities, and scientific schools, or for business life. There is a four-year Senior course and a two-year Junior course to prepare students for the Senior course.

The Home Life is cordial and refined. It is under Christian though unsectarian influences. For catalogue, terms, etc., address

The Mackenzie School

Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.

THE School is commended to parents and guardians because the life and work arranged for its 150 pupils (between the ages of 10 and 19) represent the experience and convictions of 22 years in the head-mastership of two successful secondary schools (the Wilkes-Barre Academy and the Lawrenceville School.)

The location is one of singular beauty and healthfulness (the School has had no case of serious illness in its history.) There is perfect drainage, the climate of the famous Westchester County, and spring water of a high degree of purity. All modern comforts and equipment are provided; a home life; single rooms and single beds; gymnasium with swimming pool; 20 acres of athletic grounds with running track; a large, attractive chapel and library.

Next to its purpose to admit and retain only clean, responsive boys, the School's chief claim for favorable consideration is to be found in the number and qualifications of the Masters. They are carefully selected in the light of a wide acquaintance; they have been thoroughly prepared for their life-work, and there is one master for each 7 or 8 boys.

The publications of the School make two statements worthy of further record: That there has been no case of serious discipline, and that 85 per cent of the examination papers submitted to the colleges have been successfully passed.

Rev. JAMES C. MACKENZIE, Ph. D., Director. WYATT W. RANDALL, Ph. D., Head-Master.

BRIARCLIFF SCHOOL

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N. Y.

FOR GIRLS

OPENS October 7, 1903, with Miss Mary Alice Knox and Mrs. Mary E. Dow as principals. Miss Knox, who was associate professor in history at Wellesley College prior to 1895, went in that year to reorganize the Emma Willard School, and was its head until she resigned in 1901. Mrs. Dow was for more than twenty years connected with and for many years was principal of the Farmington School, Farmington, Conn.

SITUATION.

LOCATION: The School is fifty minutes from New York, about two miles from Scarborough station on the main line of the New York Central railway, two miles from the Briarcliff Manor station on the Putnam division, and 450 feet above the Hudson.

BUILDINGS: The main building is a magnificent structure, beautifully furnished, new and complete, with perfect sanitary appointments, hot water heating, and electric lighting. Exercise afforded by gymnasium, tennis court, golf links, etc., and a large amusement building furnishes the means for indoor recreation.

Dairy products, poultry, eggs and vegetables are procured from the famous Briarcliff Farms, near by. The water supply is absolutely pure.

INSTRUCTION.

THE FACULTY is made up of trained specialists, and the management is in the unhampered hands of the principals, who will be enabled to work out their ideals in this School.

THE COURSES include thorough preparation for college for those who desire it, and special advantages for girls who do not care to go to college. Among these advantages may be noted work in Domestic Science under a trained specialist, thorough training in the speaking of the modern languages in addition to the usual study of their grammars and literatures, advanced work in the study of English literature, special preparation for the appreciative enjoyment of the great concerts, oratorios and operas which the pupils will attend in New York, and preparation for foreign travel.

Saint John's School MANLIUS NEW YORK

WM. VERBECK, A. M., Head Master

SAINT JOHN'S SCHOOL was founded in 1869 by the Right Rev. Frederic D. Huntington, Bishop of Central New York; and has ever since been a successful School of the highest grade. It is located in Manlius, New York, ten miles from Syracuse, with which it is connected by a convenient electric line, with a terminus at the School. The situation of the School buildings is on high ground, with excellent natural drainage. The immediate locality, as well as the region surrounding it, is extremely healthful. Although within easy access of all parts of the country, the pupils, by its location, are removed from the evil influences that surround larger towns.

The destruction by fire, in 1902, of some of the old buildings, gave the opportunity of replacing them with more modern structures, chief among which are the Academic Building of the Upper School and Verbeck Hall, the home of the Lower School. The buildings have been constructed with express reference to educational uses, provided with special securities against accident and ill health. They have all the modern improvements, are heated by steam and lighted with electricity.

The School is situated about half a mile from the village, on ground considerably elevated above it. The grounds are extensive, comprising seventy acres, principally in woods. Twenty acres are laid out in lawns and parades, including specialy graded grounds for football, baseball, lawn tennis and general athletics.

Vassar College Poughkeepsie New York

John M. Taylor, D. D., LL. D., President.

..Founded by Matthew Vassar; incorporated 1861 as Vassar Female College; changed in 1867 to the present corporate name : :

OFFERS a complete course of undergraduate study for women covering four years and leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts; also a graduate course leading to the degree of Master of Arts. During the college year 1902-3 there were 862 students in the College.

The College buildings and residence halls are of the best modern architecture and the most improved sanitary and other equipments. The Frederick F. Thompson Library contains about forty-five thousand volumes, and the chemical, physical, biological and other laboratories represent the best working facilities for scientific instruction and research. The Museum of Natural History comprises excellent geological, paleontological and zoological collections, the Art Gallery, the Hall of Casts, the Astronomical Observatory and the Eleanor Conservatory are all valuable adjuncts to the various branches of instruction. Special attention is paid to health and physical training.

The College is distinctly Christian, though unsectarian in its management, and it welcomes those of every faith to its advantages.

In September, 1899, Dwight Holbrook, who had been twenty-one years principal of the Morgan School, in Connecticut, became associated with his brothers in carrying on the school.

ocation About thirty miles from New York on Briar Cliff, a hill overlooking the Hudson, one mile from the village of Ossining (formerly Sing Sing) N. Y. The school grounds cover 24 acres. Besides the old building, a substantial brick structure, entirely remodeled in 1897, a new brick building 120 x 40 feet, three stories high, has been erected; to be occupied in the fall of 1901.

ilitary Discipline The Military feature of the school is intended to train pupils in habits of order, prompt obedience, physical development, neatness and uniformity. The military feature is always subordinated to the academic purposes of the school.

ourses of Study The general course is graded in six Forms, the first two comprising the Lower School and the other four the Upper School. In the latter are three separate courses—the Classical, Latin-Scientific and English-Scientific—the completion of either of which entitles a pupil to a diploma. Princeton and Yale examinations are conducted at the school.

'ome Life and Recreation The home life of the school is happy and sympathetic, tending to develop kindly and manly qualities. Proper attention is paid to athletic games and gymnastic exercises. The school is characterized by an excellent spirit. Its health record is exceptionally good.

esults The alumni of this school include men of success and distinction in business and the professions throughout the country.

RUMSEY HALL

SENECA FALLS, NEW YORK

A PREPARATORY SCHOOL FOR YOUNG BOYS

Physical Culture

Gymnasium is equipped with aparatus and appliances suitable for young boys.

Gymnasium work and athletic sports under skillful instruction. Due care is taken to prevent excessive exercise or accident.

Home Life

The home life at Rumsey Hall is one of its great charms. All the unpleasant features of boarding school are eliminated. Surroundings refining and elevating.

RUMSEY HALL is a school for young boys only, and in this respect is a recognized need. Boys are taken as young as six, and no boy received who has passed his fourteenth birthday, though pupils are allowed to remain until they finish the course.

Boys are thoroughly prepared to enter without conditions the best secondary schools such as Mackenzie, Lawrenceville, Wilson, Mercersberg, Pomfret, St. Paul's, Hill, St. Mark's, St. Luke's, Cloyne, St. George's, Morristown, Washington and other schools of high grade.

The number is limited to twenty-five so that the individual temperaments and needs of each pupil may be studied.

The instruction in French, Spanish and German not only aims to give the boys a grammatical knowledge, but conversation is obligatory.

The location is beautiful and healthful, the house commodious and sunny, the sanitary conditions excellent and the home life ideal.

FOR GIRLS

Diocesan School of Central New York

THE Thirty-third year of this well known School began September 17, 1903. The School is thoroughly classified, and comprises a regular course of study, occupying four years, and Preparatory and Primary Departments. The course of instruction includes the English branches, ancient and modern languages, music (instrumental and vocal), drawing and painting.

College preparation (following the course recommended by the College Entrance Examination Board) may be substituted for the regular course. A thorough course in the History of Art, with illustrated lectures, is under the instruction of the Principal.

A primary object, in addition to scholarly attainments, is the formation of character in accordance with the principles of the Christian faith.

The school has a Normal Class for the training of Kindergarten teachers which has been wonderfully successful.

RIVERVIEW ACADEMY

A Classical, English and Military School.

ION. The school which is now located at Riverview was founded in 1836 by Charles Bartlett, Senator Nathaniel P. Tallmadge and others, at College Hill, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and was known as the Poughkeepsie Collegiate School. In 1849 Otis Bisbee became connected with the school as an instructor, and in 1857 became principal. In 1867 Mr. Bisbee removed the school from College Hill to its present site overlooking the Hudson and it then became known as Riverview Academy. In 1879 Mr. Bisbee's son, Joseph Bartlett Bisbee, became a teacher in the school and in 1883 was associated with his father as one of the principals, and since 1895 has been the sole principal and owner under whose guidance the school has continued.

It is the aim of Riverview to cultivate concentration, observation, and reasoning power. Boys are prepared for college, the Scientific Schools, the Government Academies, and business life by a body of instructors who have been men of high scholarship in their respective colleges. The military department is under the guidance of a U. S. Army officer detailed by the government.

Riverview makes manly boys and boys of robust physique by drill, sports, and exercises out of doors. It trains the physical to aid the mental. Athletics and all sports are encouraged in proportion as they help to build up the mental capacity. Riverview is non-sectarian, but attendance at all prescribed religious exercises is required. A student at the Union Seminary, New York City, is in charge of the Bible study.

School for Girls

Cornwall-on-Hudson, New York

THIS true "Home" school is delightfully located on high, healthful grounds, fifty miles from New York on the west bank of the Hudson. Its aim is to provide home training as well as a sound education, to prepare its pupils for useful lives, to develop healthy bodies and to lay the foundations for gracious womanhood. Limitation in number permits individual attention to the special needs of each.

Grammar, College Preparatory, Academic and Special Courses are offered, with exceptional instruction in Music and Art; the languages are under native teachers; and there are practical courses in sewing and cooking.

Spacious grounds give an opportunity for out-door games; golf, tennis, country walks with teachers; there is also a gymnasium for physical culture and wholesome in-door recreation.

Miss Worden was for several years in charge of the school for officers' children at West Point and private tutor in some of the foremost families of New York, before establishing this School, which has been very successful. For catalogue, etc., address,

CLEVELAND OHIO

THE SCHOOL is divided into three parts—the Lower School, the Middle School and the Upper School, each including three grades, leading up to a complete preparation for the leading colleges and scientific schools.

Physical training is a regular part of the curriculum, and students are required to take daily exercise, either upon the athletic grounds or in the gymnasium, under the direction and supervision of the physical director and his assistants.

Wholesome supervision and personal attention to each pupil are the leading features of the school's policy. The courses of study include not only the regular classical and scientific studies taught in the best preparatory schools, but also attractive courses in shopwork and instrumental music.

The arrangements for resident pupils provide a wholesome substitution for home life. Since the school was started in 1890 it has always maintained an exceptional record for sound and thorough scholarship.

MISS MITTLEBERGER'S SCHOOL FOR GIRLS

CLEVELAND, OHIO

The School furnishes through its five thoroughly graded departments, a complete college preparatory education; and also has advanced courses of study for girls who are not to attend college.

The five departments—Academic, Preparatory, Intermediate, Primary and Kindergarten, are as distinct as separate schools. Therefore the pupil has the advantages of individual attention given in the small school, and of the complete equipment which only the large school can provide.

The large faculty of experienced instructors, thoroughly trains the pupil in all the studies of the prescribed courses, and the certificate of the school admits to leading colleges. Due attention is given to the moral and physical, as well as the intellectual training of pupils.

Boarding pupils are provided with the comforts and care of a refined home. The School is recommended by distinguished clergymen, college presidents and professors, and by leading professional and business men of Ohio and many other States. Full information furnished on application to Washington and Jefferson College .... Washington Pa.

THIS college ranks among the oldest educational institutions west of the Allegheny mountains, as it traces its origin by an unbroken line to classical schools founded in Washington County, Pennsylvania, in 1780. It was chartered as an academy in 1787, and a college in 1802. Its alumni number over 4,000, and its present enrollment is 350, its teaching force 26, and its buildings, grounds and endowment amount to over $900,000.

Among its alumni have been 4 Cabinet Secretaries, 10 Governors, 10 United States Senators, 60 Congressmen, 200 Legislators, 100 Judges, 28 Moderators, 70 Presidents of Colleges and Universities and 170 Professors

Its specialty has been the training of men for professional life, but it maintains a scientific department with modern equipment for its laboratories.

The town of Washington is healthful and beautiful, where temptations to young men are few, and expenses very moderate.

LAFAYETTE COLLEGE

EASTON - - - - PENNSYLVANIA

Ethelbert D. Warfield, LL. D., President.

ORGANIZED 1824, and named in honor of General Lafayette's visit to the United States; chartered March 9, 1826; opened May 9, 1832. The College has, from the first, maintained high standards, upon methods that are conservative in all those things proved by experience to be best, but wisely progressive in taking advantage of all that modern scholarship offers for improvement of methods of teaching and for building up Christian manhood. The college has always been under able management, and generous gifts and endowments have supplied the college with buildings and equipments of exceptional quality. The location is ideal, the college occupying a group of noble buildings placed on a grand and picturesque eminence overlooking the Delaware Valley and River. Lafayette has been rightly called "The College Beautiful."

Besides offering Classical, Latin Scientific and General Scientific courses, Lafayette has schools of Engineering and Chemistry, with technical courses in civil, electrical and mining engineering and chemistry, with corresponding degrees.

There were 415 undergraduate students during the college year 1902-3 at Lafayette. It has a large and efficient faculty and the college is an exponent of the idea that intellectual and moral strength are best obtained by maintaining many points of contact between teacher and taught in sympathetic and friendly harmony.

Though under Presbyterian control and unfalteringly Christian, Lafayette has no controversial or sectarian teaching. Reverent study of the Bible is a feature of instruction in every department and in every course.

Bryn Mawr College . . .

COLLEGE of Advanced Learning for Women, founded by Dr. Joseph W. Taylor of Burlington, N. J. (who died January 18, 1880), and opened for instruction in the autumn of 1885. The academic organization is especially complete, and includes a most comprehensive choice of major and minor courses and free elective courses in undergraduate work, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Graduate courses leading to degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy are also offered, these graduate courses being especially strong and comparing favorably with those of any of the most prominent graduate schools of this country. Bryn Mawr has gained rank with the world's foremost schools for the higher education of women.

The college buildings are at Bryn Mawr, a suburb of Philadelphia, five miles west of the city, on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The college grounds cover fifty-two acres and include lawns, tennis courts, golf links and a large athletic field and skating pond. The college buildings include Taylor Hall and Dalton Hall (the latter housing the scientific departments), and there are also six halls of residence and three resident cottages in which are the finest and most complete arrangements for resident pupils. The hygienic equipments of the College buildings and of the halls of residence are of the most complete character, and a prescribed course of physical exercise is among the college requirements at Bryn Mawr.

The faculty, headed by M. Carey Thomas, Ph. D., LL. D., is very large, and includes educators and specialists of the highest distinction.

The methods and advantages of the College have been wisely planned, and the success of the institution, measured by any standard, but particularly by the exceptionally high position in professional and social life taken by its graduates, is of the most gratifying character.

The Misses Shipley's School for Girls

Preparatory to Bryn Mawr College

Beginning in 1894 with two pupils, the Misses Shipley's School for Girls has grown to an enrollment of more than seventy in its tenth year. During the intervening period its pupils have taken an honored place among those entering the College. Tested results have been the basis of its success, and these results come from the well organized system adopted, which aims constantly at thoroughness. The work of the pupils is carefully directed in such a way as to secure the best economy of effort.

In its present development the school covers a complete education in primary, junior and senior departments, fully preparing for Bryn Mawr. For pupils who are not going to college, there is an academic course of equal standard. Each course leads to a diploma.

The excellent teaching staff, headed by the Misses Shipley, is representative of ripe scholarship and of the most improved methods. The home life is ideal, the only restrictions being such as are required by the best social usages and the most careful regard for the moral, mental and physical health of the pupils, while the need of the students for recreation is fully recognized and provided for.

Every application for entrance is given careful consideration; the number of pupils is limited, the school is select, and in all respects of high grade.

Germantown, - Philadelphia

College Preparatory Boarding & Day School for Girls

THE thirty-fifth year of this school begins September 24, 1903. It has a College Preparatory Course, which satisfies all the requirements made by the entrance examinations of any college, and pupils who graduate in this course are admitted without examination into colleges of the highest standing. There is also an Academic Course, which provides for the liberal education of pupils who do not enter college and whose training is adapted freely to their individual needs. The classes are so divided as to secure distinct consideration for each pupil. Bible lessons are given regularly to every class by the principal.

The Boarding Department is limited in number, and its pupils are received by the principal into her own home, so that they have the advantage of her personal care. The home adjoins the school. The table is liberally provided, and the students' rooms are comfortably and completely furnished. Lawn tennis and other outdoor games are provided on the grounds, and the gymnasium is available for indoor exercise.

The school property is within twenty minutes by rail from the Philadelphia City Hall, and Germantown itself is well known as a historic suburb, singularly attractive and healthful. Address inquiries to

THE HILL SCHOOL
POTTSTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA

THE HILL SCHOOL was founded in 1851 by Rev. M. Meigs, LL. D., ex-president of Delaware College, and was reorganized in 1876 by John Meigs, Ph. D., with special reference to the need for thorough and critical preparation of boys and young men for the best American Colleges and Scientific Schools.

There has been growth in numbers, but scrupulous care has been taken in the selection of pupils, it being desired that only boys of worthy character and the best antecedents should be admitted to the school. The highest scholastic efficiency is attained, and there is a close study of the individual needs of each pupil, by means of which the highest possible results are obtained; not only in educational attainments, but also in culture, manliness and physical health.

Pupils come to the school from the best families in all parts of the country, and among its alumni are men of the highest standing and distinction.

The school property, comprising over one hundred acres, and noteworthy for picturesque beauty, is located on an eminence in the Schuylkill Valley. It is one of the best educational sites in the country, and the buildings, equipments and appointments are of the most complete and admirably adapted character.

The Hill School is one of the foremost among the institutions engaged in fitting boys for leading American Colleges.

MORAVIAN SEMINARY

BETHLEHEM, PA.

THIS historic School for girls and young women was founded January 5, 1749. Distinctively Christian, it is entirely undenominational in all its religious teaching and training. It has always been in the best sense select and has trained to brilliant and distinguished womanhood the wives, sisters and mothers of men famous in statesmanship, in war, finance, philanthropy and the liberal professions—women as distinguished for their loyalty and devotion to the Seminary as for their social eminence.

Its educational system is unique in the closeness of personal touch between teacher and pupil; in the sympathy and homelike comfort of the family life; in the thoroughness of the curriculum, and in the excellence of the arrangements for the moral, mental and physical culture of each pupil.

Historical

First opened at Portsmouth, R. I., Eleventh Month, 8th, 1784, by Isaac Lawton. Closed in 1788 for want of funds; opened again in Providence in 1819. Moses Brown (a founder of Brown University), donated the site, and subscribed to its funds, and left it $15,000 at his death. His son, Obediah, donated over $100,000 in 1822, and many other donations were made to the School : : : : :

A THOROUGH School for boys and girls. Pupils may here lay the foundation in the elementary studies, pursue regular courses in the mathematics, sciences, ancient and modern languages, philosophy, and all the studies required for the most complete preparation for the best American colleges and universities, and for the highest walks of business or professional life.

The buildings are large, equipped in the best manner for educational purposes and for home life, and the new gymnasium building provides an admirable opportunity for recreation and physical development. The campus comprises 26 acres "on top of Providence," the cupola of the main building overlooking nearly every town in Rhode Island. There are spacious playgrounds for boys and girls.

While the school is under the management of the Society of Friends, it is under a broad and liberal policy. Less than half the teachers are Friends, and less than half the pupils are from the families of Friends. The moral and spiritual welfare of pupils is, however, promoted in a thoroughly unsectarian way.

The faculty includes a large number of permanent teachers, both men and women, of accurate scholarship and large experience.

RACINE COLLEGE

GRAMMAR SCHOOL

THE Grammar School of Racine College was founded in 1852 by the Rev. Roswell Park, D. D., father of Dr. Roswell Park of Buffalo, New York. It was constituted under a Board of Trustees, of which the Rt. Rev. Jackson Kemper, D. D., was president.

In the year 1859 the Rev. James DeKoven was appointed Rector of the school and succeeded Dr. Park on his retirement as Warden, a few years later. Dr. DeKoven died in 1879, lamented by the whole American church. He was succeeded by the Rev. Stevens Parker of Elizabeth, New Jersey. Dr. Parker resigned in 1881, and was succeeded by the Rev. Albert Z. Gray of New York. Dr. Gray resigned in 1889, and was succeeded by the Rev. Arthur Piper, D. D. Dr. Piper resigned the wardenship in 1899, and was succeeded by the present Warden.

The school is divided into six forms, with upper and lower divisions in the first three. The school prepares boys for eastern or western universities. The Warden is assisted by eleven masters and the school numbers one hundred and fifty boys.

The grounds comprise ninety acres and are on the western shore of Lake Michigan. The buildings follow the general line of early English architecture, and are in the form of a quadrangle about five hundred feet long and three hundred feet wide, with the Chapel in the center.

The Grammar School of Racine College is the oldest Episcopal school in the West. It is not, and never was, under private management. Its governing body is a Board of Trustees, of which the Bishop of Milwaukee is President. On the board are the Bishops of Springfield, Minnesota, Indianapolis, and the Bishops Coadjutor of Chicago and Omaha.

The school exists solely for the good it can do for boys, and is carried on for this alone. Whatever profits are made from the income always go back to the school in some shape or other, usually for its better equipment, or to further in some way the work for which it was founded.

Catalogues giving full description of the school and its work, may be obtained by addressing

Racine College Grammar School

Episcopal High School of Virginia

THE boarding schools for boys of the best class in Virginia have long been favorably known and among them, perhaps, this is the oldest. Only one other under Church auspices in the United States was sooner founded.

Established by Bishop Meade in 1839, it is one of several like academies whose erection was directly prompted by the celebrated school of Dr. Muhlenberg, at Flushing, L. I. Though near the Episcopal Theological Seminary, and with the same trustees, the two institutions are distinct. This is simply a boys' school of high grade fitting for college or business. The present Principal has been in charge since 1870 and under him it has attained its greatest prosperity.

The situation upon a ridge, three miles from Alexandria and eight from Washington, D. C., is regularly healthy at all seasons. Its elevation affords a magnificient view of these cities (with Capitol, library and monument) and of the surrounding country for many miles. Extensive grounds include, besides ball fields and tennis courts, a gymnasium, skating lake and golf links. The drainage is perfect and there is an abundant supply of pure well water.

The regular course comprehends six forms and any one who completes it satisfactorily is certificated as a graduate of the School. A Catalogue, with full particulars, will be sent on application to the Principal.

Milwaukee-Downer College

FOR YOUNG WOMEN AND GIRLS

MILWAUKEE, : : : WISCONSIN

THIS institution is a consolidation, made in July, 1895, of Milwaukee College, founded 1854, and Downer College (formerly located at Fox Lake, Wis.) chartered 1855. The college site occupies a tract of ten acres in the northern part of Milwaukee, amid picturesque surroundings and city advantages. There are three residence buildings besides the building used for instruction.

The College offers a regular College Course of study, four years, and a Seminary Course, preparing for eastern and western colleges and universities, which admit students without examination on the certificate of this College.

The musical Department is under supervision of Emil Liebling. The Teachers' Training Course in Domestic Science is also a prominent feature. There are complete laboratories, a large, well-selected library and modern equipments; well furnished gymnasium, bowling, boating, tennis.

Bible instruction is given in college and seminary courses, and the college is distinctly Christian, though not sectarian, in its teaching and influence.

LOCATION

BUILDINGS occupy three-fourths of a block, the remainder of which is occupied by the West Side Hospital, closely identified with the College. The location is in the heart of the medical center of Chicago, within 100 yards of the Cook County Hospital.

THIS college has a large faculty of distinguished and skillful medical educators and practitioners headed by William Edward Quine, M. D., Dean.

The course leading to the degree of Doctor of Medicine covers four years. The plan of instruction in the college contemplates the freest use of laboratory teaching. The laboratories for the departments of biology, pathology, chemistry and histology are large, light, have ample accommodations, are conveniently arranged, and are equipped with the newest and most modern apparatus. The Clinical Opportunities of the College are not surpassed in the United States. The Quine Library, a comprehensive collection of Standard medical publications, second in size among the Medical Libraries in Chicago, is located in the College and is at the disposal of students.

A Combined course in Natural Science and Medicine, enabling students to take both the science and medical degrees at the end of six years is offered by the University of Illinois.

'ARD ERSITY THE MEDICAL SCHOOL 688 Boylston St. Boston, Mass.

Candidates for admission to this School must present a degree in Arts, Literature, osophy, or Science from a recognized college or scientific school, with the exception of such persons, of suitable age and attainments, as may be admitted by a special vote of the Administrative Board in each case. The course of study required in this school for the degree of M. D. is of four years' duration. This requirement was established at the beginning of the year 1892-93. During the past four years changes in the curriculum have been adopted which enable the student to work to better advantage. The first three years are devoted to prescribed work, and the fourth year entirely to elective courses. The first half of the first year is devoted solely to Anatomy and Histology, the second half of the first year to Physiology and Physiological and Pathological Chemistry. Students devote the first half of the second year to Pathology and Bacteriology, and the remainder of the second year to a variety of studies which more particularly prepare the student for the clinical work of the third and fourth years.

In the fourth year, courses are adapted to the student who wishes to fit himself to be a general practitioner, and also suitable courses for those who intend to become specialists in any department of medicine.

The clinical advantages of the numerous hospitals and dispensaries of Boston, the large collection of the Warren Anatomical Museum, the Boston Medical Library of 35,000 volumes and 30,000 pamphlets, the Boston Public Library and the College Library at Cambridge, are all accessible to the students of this school. The various laboratories of the school are equipped with exceptional completeness.

THE Fifty-fifth Annual Session of this College closed May 14, 1903. The standing of the Institution is surpassed by none. Its alumni, engaged in the practice of medicine and surgery in all parts of the United States, honor it by their professional proficiency. A four years' graded course, including all the tested aids and improvements of advanced medical education, is offered, under guidance of a Faculty composed of eminent and learned professors and instructors, and made especially effective by the excellence of the facilities offered by the Hospital for clinical instruction.

The buildings occupied by the various departments of the College and Hospital occupy a tract fronting on North Broad Street, a location especially advantageous and eligible. The Hospital is large, and offers great advantages to the student. The College Museum is one of the most extensive and complete medical museums in the country, and the College Library is probably the most complete Homœpathic Library in the world. During the 12 months covered by the last report 2053 in-patients and 12,245 accident and emergency cases were treated in the Hospital, and the out-patient section treated 28,552 patients, making a grand total of 37,850 patients treated.

The Student of Medicine can find no institution better able to prepare him for efficiency and success in the practice of Homœpathic medicine.

JEFFERSON MEDICAL COLLEGE

THIS celebrated college, which begins the work of its 77th year October 1, 1901, has borne an important part in the development of the medical sciences. Many of the most distinguished physicians of America, dead and living, received professional training within its walls. At the session of 1900-1901 the college had 100 members of its faculty and teaching staff (exclusive of the hospital staff), and had 736 students, from 46 states and territories and eight foreign countries.

The hospital of the college, which contains 140 beds and also has an out patient department treating over 300 cases daily, provides a wealth of clinical material seldom equaled anywhere in the world. The new buildings, completed in 1899, are admirably appointed, the laboratories are thoroughly equipped and the curriculum for the four-year course represents the most modern ideas in medical education and all of the advantages of progress in teaching and clinical methods.

There are numerous prizes and hospital appointments which are annually conferred upon graduates of the college.
